NAPS members are a vital element to ensure that your constituents receive excellent mail service. Our members are keenly aware of the operational and financial crosscurrents that can make such excellence challenging. Mail security and the safety of postal personnel have emerged as dual threats to the sanctity of mail, as well as the consistency of mail collection and mail delivery. NAPS members are also attuned to the lack of information and community input relating to a new Postal Service initiative to consolidate sorting and delivery operations under one roof. NAPS members strongly believe that confidence in our national postal system is directly related to reliability, speed and accessibility.

NAPS brings more than 500 legislative activists from throughout the nation to Washington to engage with their representatives and senators on legislative issues that impact NAPS members and the U.S. Postal Service. Spearheading this activism are the 50 legislative chairs of each state. In 2025, NAPS is delighted to share with members of 119th Congress our legislative priorities for the year. In addition, NAPS members are eager to continue the dialogue on these issues throughout the year, whether it be in person, by letter or via digital communications.

NAPS and Postal Approval

As supervisors, managers and postmasters, NAPS members take pride in the high approval rating Americans have awarded the U.S. Postal Service. A September 2024 Gallup Survey reported that the Postal Service is the highest rated federal agency, with 59% rating the job done by the Postal Service either "excellent" or "good."
